HEALTH PLANS
As we move to the future, especially around value-based contracting, hospitals, physicians, and payers are going to have to work actively together. Being a member of HFMA helps me understand the perspective of the provider community around financial management, and the specifics of what they deal with day to day. I find that perspective very helpful in figuring out ways to work together.

PHILIP KANE
DIRECTOR, NETWORK AND COMPETITIVE ANALYTICS, FLORIDA BLUE

HFMA provides great networking opportunities. If you're having an issue, e.g., managed care, you can reach out to colleagues elsewhere to see how they've handled it. For physicians and payers, it's important to build those relationships. We have to work together, having everyone at the table will make transitioning to bundled payments and accountable care much easier.

KIM HEBERT
VICE PRESIDENT OF FINANCE, NORTH OAKS MEDICAL CENTER

HFMA helps me see what's happening in different parts of the country. It reduces the risk of decision making to be able to compare what we're doing to what others have done. At a personal level, my experience with HFMA has helped me move pretty easily between hospital roles, insurance company roles, and physician practice leadership — I've always had a network of people to talk to.

ABOUT HFMA
With more than 40,000 members, the Healthcare Financial Management Association (HFMA) is the nation’s premier membership organization for healthcare finance leaders. HFMA builds and supports coalitions with the healthcare community and industry groups to achieve consensus on solutions for the challenges the U.S. healthcare system faces today. Working with a broad cross-section of stakeholders, HFMA identifies gaps throughout the healthcare delivery system and bridges them through the establishment and sharing of knowledge and best practices. We help healthcare stakeholders achieve their goals by meeting and addressing our members’ strategic, technical and practical needs and solutions. Our mission is to lead the financial management of health care.

HFMA is the premier membership organization serving hospital CFOs and finance professionals, as well as leaders in health plans and physician practices committed to finding the best ways to deliver value in health care.

HFMA is the place to find the visionary leaders, the financial know-how, the strategies, the case studies, the educational opportunities, and the colleagues who are stepping up to today’s historic challenges.
